Barbara Clark

As early as I can remember I dreamt about painting. They were either the actual works I'd seen or those I imagined drawing. Color and line were early fascinations and I enjoyed the freedom and challenge of using them on a 2 dimensional space. Asian art I found haunting because the line almost does all the work and less is more seems fundamental to that sensibility. Instead of representational forms I prefer bio-organic and abstract pieces mingling elements from fantasies and visions. I see art as an unfolding of those – a joyous exploration.

LaTonia Shanee Allen

LaTonia Allen is a multidisciplinary artist whose work centers around themes exploring liberation, agency and the body with a focus on portraiture and figuration. LaTonia washes and redacts splashes of oils and charcoal to create abstract environments for her subjects to move in and out of. Filled with symbolism and hidden text, she depicts strong women thinking about the relation between the body and space in both historical and future contexts. LaTonia is currently working on a series of self portraits utilizing foliage and translucent greens/yellows as a search for liberation through energy. LaTonia earned her BFA in Arts at Texas Southern University (2015) and is a 2020 MFA graduate from the School of Visual Arts. She has had three solo exhibitions at District Art Gallery (Texas), The Houston Museum of African American Culture(Texas) and the Wallworks Art Gallery(New York), and has been in group exhibitions at the SVA Chelsea Gallery, Beyond Studios NYC, The Painting Center, and Project for Empty Space. LaTonia currently lives and works in the Bronx, NY. www.latoniallen.com

Carla Maldonado

(Brazilian, b.1986)

Carla Maldonado is a multimedia artist, working in photography, video and installation. Her work responds to socio-political events, ecofeminism and the environmental crisis, investigating the struggle of progressive movements in Brazil, and her immigrant experience in the United States of America. Maldonado aims to reconcile the beauty of private contemporary relationships, nostalgic memories and dreams of social utopias within the distorted reality she navigates, which in turn becomes her visual narrative. Maldonado lives and works in New York City and is currently AIM Fellow at The Bronx Museum. She received her MFA in Photography, Video & Related Media, SVA in New York, 2019

Myra Kooy's

Myra Kooy has been making art since she was a child, transforming everyday events into elaborate stories and environmental installations, which she called forts. As an adult, her art still spills out into every aspect of her life, with stories growing out of her clothing, accessories, and every aspect of her home space. Out of this lifestyle, she came to embrace the terms "Livable and Wearable Art." She has traveled across the United States with her Wearable and Livable artwork and even made it to the Smithsonian in Washington D.C.

Over the past 15 years, Myra has developed a strong fine art practice and has shown work and/or curated shows in such spaces as Center City Gallery, River Winds Gallery, Brooklyn Water Front Coalition, Trestle Gallery, and Ground Floor Gallery. Most recently, she has entered the MFA program at Citi College and received the Merit Connor Award.

Daria Zhest

Daria Zhest is a visual/conceptual artist based in Moscow/ NYC, and currently lives and works in Brooklyn, New York. Daria creates complex multi-dimensional works that redefine space in the close vicinity physically, as well as metaphorically. Methodically extrapolating certain forms by pausing the algorithmic mechanisms that are created prior to execution of chosen medium. The continuity suggests the perpetual, but breaking it down into pieces and extracting a specific extent when it reaches its plateau in its precise movement is the process of making these forms. She has shown her works in various exhibitions, and currently is further developing her practice colliding the use of digital spaces and traditional materials. # From Pigs To Ham

Collette Tompkins

Collette Tompkins is a Brooklyn based Visual Artist. She received her MFA from School of Visual Arts and her BFA from the University of the Arts. Her work has been exhibited in various galleries, such as Sotheby's, Trestle Gallery, and Greenpoint Gallery. She has worked with many types of artists in arenas such as dance and theater where she has designed both costumes and sets. Her practice consists of creating masks, costumes, props and sets which then evolve into installations and video. Her work addresses her experience and observations of contemporary social-political attitudes towards women in an absurd and satirical way. Humor is important in her work as a way to communicate and cope with these issues. Through her observations that are fueling her work, there are current events yielding empowerment. She uses the genre of silent film as this concept of being stuck in this patriarchal history.

Paola Estrella Contreras

Paola Estrella is an experimental artist born in Mexico City based in London. Through her work she depicts the role of fantasy, desire, and virtuality in relation to intimacy. By diving into the blurred limits between the real and the imagined, the external and the internal world, and the public and the private, she conveys how these affect, impact and shape social conventions, gender roles, identity and our notion of reality. Estrella's multi-media practice combines mixed media and performance, processes which often result in video-installations. Her work has been exhibited internationally. She has a BA in Graphic Design, studied art direction and mixed media at Central Saint Martins, and a master's degree in contemporary art at the Royal College of Art, London, UK.

Dulce Lamarca (1992, Buenos Aires) is an Argentinian interdisciplinary artist currently based in New York. She holds a BFA in Painting and Arts Education from REA Regina Espacio de Arte, Buenos Aires, Argentina and an MFA in Fine Arts from SVA School of Visual Arts, New York. Her work has been exhibited both nationally and internationally, in New York, New Jersey, Florida, Buenos Aires, Anshan, China, and Panamá. Through video and performance, she manifests personal reflections about her life and the strangeness of being alive. "I use symbols that always carry both a personal meaning and an open-ended metaphor. I find ways to represent my viewpoints and associations around issues that are part of my core identity and worldview." Her work is a reflection about language, interpretation, and meaning. Using curiosity as an ideology, humor and technology as a tool, and participation as foundation for her practice.

Rica Takashima

Rica was born and raised in Tokyo, Japan. She received a B.A. from Tokyo University of Arts. In 1994, Rica started large scale street installation projects themed family, gender, same sex marriage, etc, which required audience participation. Meanwhile, in 1995, Rica started drawing a semi-autobiographical Manga portrayed everyday lives of lesbians, in the Japan's premier lesbian magazine at the time. Using fun modes of expression, she challenges viewers to rethink their pre-existing social values and customs regarding things like gender, age and race, and to feel more empathy towards different elements of society. She immigrated to the United States with her family, and currently resides in New York.

Amanda Smith

Amanda Smith tells a new/old story, out loud and between the lines, in the languages she grew up with – fabric, yarn, thread – as drawing tools. Her work celebrates the pleasure of making. Memory signifies in her exploration of the world – longing for times now gone, for times ahead, reclaiming and rebuilding an understanding of community where there is none. Measuring time is a source of comfort, a re-imagining or re-imagining. Growing up in Aotearoa/New Zealand during the 1960s and 70s, life was slow, hand-made, homemade and safe in a predictable small town way. Life as a social worker, office manager, florist, and lady-in-waiting filled her middle years. She moved to New York at the end of 2015, to speak the same language in a completely different culture. Amanda has an MFA Fine Arts from the School of Visual Arts, New York.

Eva Mueller is a New York-based photographer and conceptual artist. She studied graphic design in her native Germany and fashion and portrait photography at the International Center of Photography, and Parsons School of Design in New York. After a career as a fashion and music photographer Mueller shifted her focus to fine art and portraiture. The German Bauhaus school's aesthetic strongly influences Mueller's minimalistic style and strong sense for composition, often injected with subtle wit. Mueller's work takes a deeper look at the core constructs of our human existence, such as gender identity, race, and sexuality. She challenges the viewer to reconsider their perspective and question their judgments. Mueller's work has been exhibited internationally in museums and galleries. Mueller currently lives and works in Brooklyn, New York.

Andrea Young was born in London in 1954 and migrated with her family to Australia in 1963. She has lived in the USA since 1990. She says "I have lived on 3 continents and in and between 2 genders. Each of those life changes has been challenging, as has being left-handed in a right-handed world, but all ultimately allowed me to grow and equipped me with an unusual range of life experiences and perspectives. I never felt like I fit in so I observed, analysed and recorded things around me. My photographs capture what was the 'here and now', and I hope that with the passage of time some of my photographs of the banal will seem extraordinary. We cannot know how people of the future will view the past, only that it will be different than people who were there at the time remember it, and for reasons we might not have imagined."

I AM THE STRAIGHT ARROW ©Janet Restino

I am the straight arrow in deep blue sky
am the target in windy night
hold me tight
let me go
feel the string snapped in my bow
all the sounds
you breathing haunting chords
your fingers touch strings to my heart half moon melodies
rhythms curving like rose's hips pictures tasting like Artemis

I am the straight arrow in deep blue sky
am the target in windy night
hold me tight
let me go
breathing melodies
moonplucked and rippling
rose's hips
and Artemis curls her arms round her bow

there you are she says

Janet Restino

I like to mix things up. I like my visuals sensual, my sounds vibrating in tune, and my cerebral elements firing on all circuits.

I'm steeped in visual history from cave drawings to cartoons, from Willendorfs to windmills, frescos to fig leaves, Polaroids to pixels. I'm constantly inspired by and indebted to so many great artists, musicians, writers and friends egging me on.

I'm not much different than a bee making honey, a spider spinning a web. I mine the psyche and the spirit to make art.

I'm just a vessel at times – keeping myself in tune to participate in the act of creation which feels truly divine.

Find my videos, performances and music on Youtube and Soundcloud.

You can buy my art& poetry book "LOVE'S BODY" on Ebay.

Amada Cartoons

Amada Cartoons is a cartoonist born in Mexico City and working in Manhattan. Sources say she spent her formative years in Miami, though she denies those allegations. Earning a B.L.A. with a focus in sociology and an M.S. in Computer Science, she refers to her collective degrees as 'computing society.' Amada's work eschews digital mediums in favor of hand-drawn illustrations which she calls 'artisanal memes.' She has created work for brands like Gucci, The House of Fabergé, TED Conferences, Rolex, Tinder, KIND Bars, Le Relais de l'Entrecôte, Glossier, and Ladurée, though they never asked for it. Her drawings satirize elitist millennial culture, serving as a poignant reminder of social luxuries taken for granted, and making viewers check their privilege. Amada promises her collectors bad prices and denies her art dealer is her mom. You should follow her on Instagram @amada.cartoons for a feed of no fake news, just propaganda.

Francesca Dalla Benetta

Francesca Dalla Benetta is an Italian sculptor based in Mexico. She studied at Fine Arts Academy in Milan.

After 10 years as a Special make up Artist in the movie industry, she now works exclusively at her own ideas and characters. Her work is characterized by mixed anatomies and forms. Human faces and bodies are combined with different textures, skins and elements, giving birth to hybrid and fantastic beings. Through unusual, bizarre and surreal bodies, she focuses on the issues of transformation, identity, sense of belonging, self perception, dreams and magic. The stories of every character, isolated in an intimate and personal dimension, are reflections about human values, perceptions and emotions. Her work has been shown internationally, in USA, Latin America and Europe.

Hannah Reimann

New York City-based singer/songwriter, multi-genre composer, pianist, filmmaker, actor and educator HANNAH REIMANN sang in punk band in Kyoto, Japan as a teen, began her career as a concert pianist (Lincoln Center, Grand Canyon Music Festival, etc.), created music videos The Bottom of the Sea (1998), I Have a Dream (2008), short films, Destroying Angel (2012) and My Father's House, a Journey of Love and Memory (2016), studied and worked with Austin Pendleton at HB Studio, acted in 20 independent films and has written music for film and theater. Her recent 8-year exploration of the early music of Joni Mitchell has led to shows in four states and praise from lovers of Mitchell's music. She wrote two books of poetry while caring for her Dad who had dementia. She is now working on a new EP of original songs. She lives and works in the West Village.

Composer Clemens Rating completed his composition, Ethiopia, in 2019 after building a well in 2018 with the non-profit, Neven Subotic Stiftung, so that an Ethiopian village could have its first local drinking water.

Lush passages evoking ebullient water, wide-open landscapes and skies pervade the music of this entrancing composition. Influenced by Steve Reich and JS Bach with harmonies reminiscent of Stravinsky, it is nonetheless 100% Clemens Rating. Ethiopia is a tribute to the country's natural beauty, the victory of giving water to people who need it, collaboration of like-minded people, people helping people, working together towards a common goal.
